Love + Hope = Freedom

Jojo Santor is a Filipino-American emerging singer/songwriter with Ryan Girado as a co-producer passionate about crafting dreamy, synth-pop R&B with Alternative spirit music based in Seattle, Washington, U.S.A., that promotes Love, Hope, and Freedom.

The early E.P. released "Inside My Heart" starred for two months in Indie Mellow Playlists on Spotify, released on March 2021. Followed by Another E.P., "Ganyan Lang," was released on April 2021. Filipino music gained a two-month rolling featured on-air via Energy FM 106.7 radio station based in the Philippines and featured on "Pangga's Power Power Play Song." The song has gained attention from thousands of views on social media that turned multiple appearances on shows with millions of subscribers on a Philippine-based social media radio station—now featured as a new artist on Wish U.S.A. Music, a Filipino-based social media live platform on YouTube with ongoing live interview appearances and performances.

Musical beginnings:

Jojo Santor is a long-time singer/performer passionate about performing Soul/R.N.B. music in the Philippines. Shared the stage on big concerts nationwide and on top bars in Manila, Philippines, before moving to New York and New Jersey U.S.A. to pursue a career in Systems Engineering. Settled and moved to Seattle, Washington, in 2009 while still performing on private party shows and events to continue following the passion for music.

When the unfortunate Covid-19 pandemic hit in 2020, Started pursuing online classes about songwriting with Ryan Tedder, Charlie Puth, Kygo, Deadmau5, Timbaland. Also attended vocal lessons with Alicia Keys, Christina Aguilera and finished professional vocal production courses with mixing and mastering courses. All brewed, recorded the released songs from my bedroom while partnering with co-producers with the power of collaboration, and leveraged the connection of the internet and cloud platforms to deliver the craft.
